

Community Event Women of Aviation Week

This weeklong event introduces girls and women to the world of aviation operations, including free, introductory flights around the Bay Area with an experienced pilot. This year, half of the pilot volunteers are women. On March 7, from 5:30 – 7 p.m., the San Carlos Airport is also bringing in a very special guest recently profiled in a national TV story, retired Air Force Lt. Colonel Olga Custodio. Lt. Custodio will participate in an interactive discussion and aviation panel

Location: Hiller Aviation Museum (601 Skyway Rd, San Carlos) with four other women aviation professionals representing a variety of aviation careers.

Fundraising: Support the United Way Silicon Valley Reading Mentor Program

The Reading Mentor program is a collaborative initiative to support young children's literacy development and later academic achievement in east San Jose. The program was started in 2010 in response to the great number of children falling behind in reading early on in school. The program includes weekly one-to-one reading mentoring sessions for children by trained community volunteers, a series of parent workshops, and Family Literacy Nights offered for parents and children. The initiative has been very successful reported by teachers, parents, and achievement data. Make donations at <http://www.uwsv.org/> and make a notation to support the Reading Mentor program.
